A GLANCE ABOUT LAUREL SOAP

NADER BARAKAT
MANUFACTURE AND TRADE OF SOAP

We started manufacturing laurel soap in Turkey, and it has spread to all governorates, many Arab countries, European countries, and East Asian countries, and its marketing has been approved in many stores that sell natural products, as it is made from olive oil.

Olive oil and sodium hydroxide substance are used in the manufacture of our laurel soap, in addition to laurel oil, which gives the soap this fragrant smell. Aleppo city is famous for this substance and it is currently exported to all over the world.

Laurel soap has gained a high reputation as a natural product whose basic ingredients come from nature and exclusively olive oil.

Furthermore, laurel soap is considered beneficial for the health of the skin and hair and can be used from head to toes.

Dandruff can also be treated by using our laurel soap, as it is voracious for fatty substances, so it benefits people with oily skin, as it is a 100% healthy substance.

Laurel soap is an effective substance for treating oily skin as well, dandruff, blackheads, and oiliness in general throughout the body.

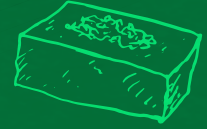

The oil is mixed with sodium hydroxide substance until the saponification process is complete, which takes 6-10 hours.

We place the oil in tanks, and a specific amount is taken from it depending on the quantity of the mixture. Then the sodium hydroxide substance is dissolved in the water at a certain temperature. By using pumps, the oil is pumped over the sodium hydroxide substance and it is stirred and mixed with special machines.

The heating process is carried out using steam, then the water is drained and the process is repeated several times until the oil is mixed really well with sodium hydroxide substance, only when it begins to saponify, the smell of the oil is changed into the smell of soap.

Then the layering process takes place, i.e. drawing water from the mixture, as it lasts until the next day. Then this process ends, and the mixture becomes ready for pouring.

Many European and Asian countries have begun to resort to the products which contain natural materials, such as food products, cotton materials, and detergents. Therefore, the fact that laurel soap is made from olive oil is considered one of the natural materials that can prevent many problems and diseases.

The next day after pouring the mixture, the cutting process comes, which is a process of forming pieces of soap in the same size and the same shape. This process is done using a simple handmade machine, which was used a long time ago, yet, it is still used to preserve and protect the roots of this traditional handicraft.

Laurel soap is characterized by its yellow-brown color on the outside and the green color from the inside. In Europe, it is called the Magic Soap.

Anyone who is accustomed to bathing with laurel soap will never be able to replace it with any other products, especially with the spread of the large number of synthetic materials used in the composition of these products, such as dyes and so on. Therefore, people began to think about resorting to natural products.
